THE COURIER NEWSLETTER

Seeking to be a living testimony to God's love, grace, and mercy.

Is it that time already? Indeed it is; time to set those alarm clocks and start the day early again. Summer vacation has flown by, changing schedules and a new season are knocking on the door. Time for school!

Let's see how some of our school aged children are feeling about returning to the classroom, and starting a new season.

Ty Slattery, Weekday Preschool, is most excited to play with friends.

Thomas Carver, Weekday Preschool, can't wait to play with those yellow and green tow trucks.

Caroline Brady, Kindergarten, Capital Day School, is looking forward to playing K-Pop Demon Hunters with her friends at recess.

Scout Slattery, Kindergarten, Peaks Mill Elementary, is excited to meet new friends and go to the library.

Maggie Bingham, third grade, Bridgeport Elementary, is looking forward to spending time with her best friend.

Rocky Stoltz, fourth grade, Second Street School, is looking forward to making new friends this year.

Will Mucci, fourth grade, Hearn Elementary, can't wait to see his friends again and be in fourth grade.

Beckett Kimbleton, fifth grade, Peaks Mill Elementary, is excited to see his friends, learn new math strategies and know that it's the last year before middle school.

Eulices Cortez, fifth grade, Peaks Mill Elementary, is excited to see his friends again this year and play soccer.

BT Bingham, sixth grade, Bondurant Middle School, is looking forward to wearing his new school clothes and using his new school supplies.

Max Stoltz, seventh grade, Second Street School, is looking forward to more social studies.

Hays Schrader, seventh grade, Edythe J. Hayes Middle School is most excited about the orange chicken at lunch on Mondays.

Violet Blatz, seventh grade, Second Street School, is excited to make new friends at a new school, and push herself beyond her comfort zone in her academics. She said she is going to miss her mom, because she has been homeschooled for the past two years.

Holden Blatz, eighth grade, Homeschool, is excited to grow his brain, learn new things and spend time with his teacher.

Haley Mucci, freshman at Franklin County High School, is looking forward to starting high school and playing soccer on the FCHS team.

Sawyer Blatz, senior at Frankfort High, is excited for new educational opportunities at a new school and is looking forward to competing with FHS in cross country this season.

As these individuals forge ahead into their new school year, let's keep them in our thoughts and prayers. It wasn't really that long ago that we were excitedly awaiting the new school season...was it??

Let's all take a moment to consider; what are you looking forward to in his season of your life?

Ecclesiastes 3:1 - There is a time for everything, and a season for every activity under the heavens.

Whatever season you find yourself in, may you remember these words and look forward to finding peace and joy in your days.

Friends at SFPC,

We are so grateful for your donations during the Interfaith Food Drive. Filling the shelves with food donated that day and with purchases made later with the financial donations has helped get our summer off to a great start!

On behalf of the Board, volunteers, and neighbors served by the Food Pantry, thank you so much for your support and all you do for our community.

Warm wishes,

Regina Wink Swinford
